

Perka the Coyote and the Road Runner

Episode: The Dog Doesn't Bark for the Village's Sake...

"Good morning, Perka. I see you sent me a greeting early at dawn for this new year, 2021. Is insomnia bothering you?"

"No, I just wanted to hear how you spent New Year's Eve," Perka chirps.

"I slept like a log. Just woke up a little while ago."

A short silence.

"Oh dear... my boyfriend didn't let me sleep at all. All night long," Perka replies.

"So, nightmare dreams," the Road Runner answers calmly.

"That's the twelfth house — when a person dreams as if it were real. And the boyfriend must be young... I mean, all night... the conclusion suggests itself."

Perka stays silent.

"Anyway... when do you have time for some gibanica? A real one, I mean. When will you have time away from that boyfriend of yours?"

"You'll get an invitation for Christmas. For sure," Perka replies.

Silence.

On Facebook, everything is calm.

Everyone is quiet.

Let it stay that way.

Dream your dreams.

And don't lie to your friends.